

Mathematical Modeling

The process of mathematical modeling requires three main steps, and these are used across all fields that need to use differential equations for this purpose.

Why is modeling useful?

Using mathematical models can be very useful in science and engineering fields for several reasons.