

Systems of Differential Equations

The next object that we want to talk about are systems of differential equations. These occur very frequently in physical situations, because it is almost impossible for only one quantity to be changing in a physical system.

First Order Systems

What is the idea of first order systems?

First Order Linear Systems

What does it look like if this systems is linear?