[66, 474, 1960, 2016, 1, 0 ,2]

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/John_Brillhart

https://www.math.arizona.edu/people/jdb1

John David Brillhart is a mathematician who was born in 1930 and he was already emeritus at the University of Arizona as a professor. He is known for his work in integer factorization, including the development of the continued fraction factorization method. He has been a principal participant in the Cunningham project which is a project started at 1925 to derive two types of factor from Cunningham number without having to use a factorization algorithm.